The oil business is on the boom an hundreds of new rigs are being erected daily. The John McKeown No. 12 which started off on Friday last at 150 barrels per hour, is now doing 35 bar-rels per hour. It is located on the William Knox farm, and is the fourth gusher McKeown has got in succession, No. 5, No. 11, No. 10 and No. 12 following each other rapidly. In this (Buffalo) township, which constitutes the Tayorstown oil field, there are now 150 producing wells and about the same number in process of drilling. On Friday last the Shaurock Oil Company's No. 3 surprised the community by producing a dine lubricating oil in the stray sand just above the Gordon producing streak. She is now filled up 1,500 feet. The oil is so heavy that a bailer will not sink in it. Its quality is fully as good as the Franklin and Smith's Ferry lubricator, and it will bring between 9 and 10 dollars per barrel. Its staying qualities cannot, however, be determined until she is pumped out. Hundreds visit the well daily, and it is thought it will open un a fine lubricating district. The well is situated on the White Farm near the Willetts lease and close to the Taylorstown depot on the B, & O. Railroad.

The Washington Oil Company have purchased the Pioneer Oil farm of 103 acres from its owner John McMannis. The original mystery or McMannis No.1, the first oil producing well in the Taylorstown field, was got on this land by the Natural Gas Company of West Virginia, in July, 1880. The price paid was $21,800. Mr. McMannis had laid away some $9,000 from his share of the oil produced to the date of the sale.

A correspondent writing from the New Cumberland field, says: The pipe of line runs 1,500 barrels in six days from the Gaiety well on the Sutor farm. The Fisher well, on the same farm, is good for 150 barrels. The following are new rigs: R. H. Herron, on the Jo Peterson and one on the Langfit; Fisher, one on the Widow Riley farm; Big Jim Company, on the Carson; Wolmer & Trautman, one on the Gardner; Altitle Jim Company, one on the Tope farm. The Fishers have three wells located on the Gardner and three on the Thomas Peterson farms; also two more on the Suton farm. The Bridgewater Company is spudding in the Mary Morrow farm. There are four wells located on the Paul Jones farm. The local lumber dealers cannot supply the demand for lumber. The pipe lines are going to build offices, and there will be a buyer located here soon. GRACE FORTER was arraigned before Squire Davis yesterday on complaint of Mary Williams, accused of assault and battery. The evidence was that she had struck Mary on the head, with brass knuckles, cutting her scalp badly. She was fined $5 and costs and in default of payment sent to jail. Both are colored.

Cement for the Union Bridge.

Messrs. Paige, Carey & Co., contractors for the Union bridge and tunnel, have awarded the contract for all the cement required for the job to Messrs. Neill & Ellingham, the wholesale grocers. The cement handled by this firm is the "Cumberland Hydraulic," and after being thoroughly tested in competition with numerous other brands, it was pronounced the best offered. Messrs. Paige, Carey & Co. have been using this cement in small lots for some time, and it has given better satisfaction than any of the other brands they have experimented with. It will require to no twelve thousand barrels to complete this work, and Messrs. Neill & Ellingham-are to be congratulated on receiving the contract.
